

CoLearning 2009:

A Colorado Conversation

February 21, 2009

Learning is conversation.

Conversation
creates change.

The future of education does not exist in the isolated world of theory and abstract conference sessions. Instead, it exists in conversations. It exists in creating a robust learning network that is ever-expanding and just-in-time. Learning 2.0 is not the beginning of this conversation. It is merely a stopping point, a time to talk about the visible difference that we all seek. Essentially, Learning 2.0: A Colorado Conversation, is a one day conference/meetup for teachers, administrators, students, school board members, parents and anyone who is interested in education.

Where:

Heritage High School
1401 West Geddes Avenue
Littleton, CO 80120

Who:

Anyone who is interested in creating 21st century learning environments and the connections that support them.

When:

February 21, 2009

How Much:

Free

For more information about Learning 2.0 and to register for the conference:

<http://colearning.wikispaces.com>

We read. We reflect. We write. We share. We learn.
Come join us for a day of conversation about learning and technology.